Memorandum presented to the President of Nepal Dr Rambaran yadav on 12 March, 2009.

Date 12 March, 2009
Your Excellency Dr Ram baran Yadav
President’s office
Shital niwas
Kathmandu, Nepal

Excellency President Yadav
Amnesty International has expressed deep concern about the deeprooted impunity that is caused by lack of transparent investigation and legal punishment to the person related to the humanrights violation and abuses in the bygone days. It brought hopelessness to the victims, their families and the general public. It promoted to the perpetrators. Continuity of this kind of incidents could reduce the beliefs of people towards national network and it could bring serious consequences.

After completion of the popular movement of 2062-63 BS, in comprehensive peace accord between Nepal Government and CPN-M, agreement with peoples representative of Terai who were in revolution, marginalized groups, other groups and the commitment of interim constitution -2063 and other occasion, government committed for special effort to end the impunity, but the government has been failed to fulfil the commitments till now.

There is no serious effort to bring the perpetrators under the justice. For instance, government rarely raised the issue about the crime against women and punish to the perpetrators. Large number of women and girls do not like to register the case like Rape and other violence. It is happening not only by the risk being excluded in society but they also have no hope that government will do something to the perpetrators. Women rights activists who are active in protection and promotion of human rights they are also beaten, threatened or even faced the death like violation.

Government is doing nothing for the protection of these women therefore women Human Rights activists are facing risk.

In this situation amnesty international wants to draw your Excellency's kind attention on the following issues.

1. Formation of the Truth and reconciliation commission (TRC)
   As the commitment in Comprehensive Peace Accord between Government of Nepal and Nepal communist party Maoist (CPN-M) that the draft bill of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission stated the proposal to provide amnesty for serious violator and abuser of the Human Rights. This proposal ignores the preface of the same draft which stated that serious violator of Human Rights and criminal against humanitarian law, will bring under the justice to reduce the impunity and aware all about it.

   According to the international Human Rights and humanitarian law TRC should not provide amnesty and recommend for impunity crime like killings, abduction, rape, disappeared events, torture which is binded by the international laws.

   Therefore,
   - The proposed TRC Bill of Nepal, under Article 25 (1), includes provisions of amnesty for those who have committed crime under his/her duty or to gain the political objectives under international laws. Article said that commission can recommend to the government for his/her amnesty. There should be an amendment. Crime according to the international law like - mass killings, crime against humanity, extrajudicial killings, enforced disappearance, torture and so on should remove from the provisions of amnesty list. There should be provisions that those kinds of crime can not get amnesty.
   - Except Rehabilitation, compensation and satisfaction commission should recommend various method of reparation for victims. There should not be repetition of the past violations. Method for this like: Law, administrative method, improvements on government practices, consolidation of legal system and improvements of human rights education should be most.

2. Make public the whereabouts of disappeared people
   In Peace accord Government and CPN(M) said- people of enforced disappearance and killed during the conflict will disclose their name, surname and permanent address publicly and informed to their family within 60 days of signing of the accord. But 2 and half year have already passed, happened nothing.

   Supreme court of Nepal in its landmark judgement on jestre 18, 2064 (June, 2007) ordered to the government about to investigate the cases of enforced disappearances, make the new law indicating enforced disappearance as criminal work and establish the investigation commission. The government released a draft of the disappearances (crime and Punishment) Bill recently. But till now the commission is not established.

   Therefore,
   - Government should disclose the whereabouts of disappeared people by both government and Maoist as soon as possible. And there should be investigation about the incident of disappearance and should punish the perpetrators.
   - Ensure the full range of appropriate reparations to the victims of disappeared and their families.
3. To end the impunity ratification of Rome statute

International criminal court is only independent and fair international body to bring the criminal in justice, linked with crime like mass murder, war crime and crime against humanity. If national government can not or do not punish the criminal linked with serious crime like crime against humanity then the international criminal court can do the work.

Considering the widespread impunity in Nepal the full bench of the house of representative directed the government to ratify the Rome Statute on 9th of saun 2063 (July 25, 2006) which is positive and appreciable. And the government established a working team to study the impacts and burden after the ratification of the Rome statute, on 1 kattik 2063 (October 18, 2006). The team handed over the report to the then deputy primeminister and foreign minister. But till now either it makes public or sign.

Nepal is passing through the sensitive path of transition where we need ensure of the transitional justice, end of impunity and ful of legal and permanent peace. For this state should do more.

If Nepal ratifies the Rome Statute then only the perpetrators of mass murder, crime against humanity and war crime will be punished.

So,

- There is urgent need to be forward looking for the procedures to ratify the Rome Statute and burden to the state after the ratification.

4. End of Impunity on violence against women and security of women human rights defenders

In Nepal violence against women is serious and widespread. According to the latest report of National Human Rights Commission, domestic violence and murder due to the dowry and sexual violence are increasing day by day. According to the National Women Commission each year tenth thousands of women are facing the violence, among them 80 percent are domestic violence.

On the other part women rights defenders who are raising question about the women rights on domestic violence and sexual violence are facing security risk but the state is not paying attention properly.

On the occasion of women rights day of this year Amnesty international has been launching worldwide campaign for the security of women rights defenders and to end the existing impunity on violation of women rights.

- There should be zero tolerance policy on violation against women and ensure the punishment for security forces and activists of political parties who are responsible for the violation of women rights.
- International and regional treaty, declaration, proposal and recommendation on condemnation and prohibition of violation against women should be applied fully.
- Take all possible measures to ensure the safety and protection of women human rights defenders, particularly in rural areas.
- Develop a national plan of action to implement the UN Declaration on Human Rights Defenders to enable human rights defenders to carry out their legitimate work without fear of reprisal.

If the state do not apply consolidated measure to bring the perpetrators of human rights violation and crime against humanity into the justice to end the impunity, and aware them about the punishment if they repeat it again then the hopelessness of people could bring the serious implications. In our views state should be aware it in timely manner.

Your Excellency President,
If you make efforts to apply our request of above, we will be very much grateful.
Thank You.
THE ISSUE OF EXISTING IMPUNITY IN NEPAL RAISED TO THE HIGH COMMISSIONER OF UN HUMAN RIGHTS

General Secretary of Amnesty International Iren Khan wrote a letter to Navanitham Pilley in March of 16, 2009 and expressed concern about the existing impunity in Nepal. In advance of her forthcoming mission to Nepal, General Secretary Khan urged her to implement effective measures to cross the circle of Impunity.

Letter stated –After the establishment of a new government in Nepal last year, situation provided opportunity to address impunity for the thousands of cases of killings, enforced disappearances, torture and other Human Rights violations and abuses committed during the internal conflict, as well as for cases that have occurred since.

International’s recent mission to Kathmandu, in March 2009, aimed to identify the priority issues on which the organization should direct its campaigning. In this context we met with the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights, civil society organizations, the National Human Rights Commission, parliamentarians and the Minister for Law.

Letter also stated that to end the existing impunity in Nepal Amnesty International Nepal and our members around the world will join to campaign in the next year for the authorities to take effective steps on it. So far no perpetrators of human rights abuses (whether committed by state security forces or members of the Communist Party of Nepal-Maoist) have been brought to justice. So people are in mood of despair, letter stated.

Letter also stated concern on that the government has passed by ordinance a law to establish a commission to investigate enforced disappearances. But the law has significant flaws, including no consultation with the concern people and it has also lack of international standard. Amnesty also expressed serious concern about the draft law establishing a truth and reconciliation commission which provides for amnesties even to the violators of human rights and humanitarian law. Amnesty suggested to the High Commissioner to raise the issue to the Nepal Government to reform it. Letter also suggested to the High Commissioner that to make effort to the government of Nepal about the accession to the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court.
WORLDWIDE CAMPAIGN FOR THE WOMEN HUMAN RIGHTS DEFENDERS OF NEPAL ON THE OCCASION OF INTERNATIONAL WOMENS DAY

On the next year of of 60th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights as well as 10th anniversary of the declaration related to rights defenders, International Women’s Day marked on the 8th of March in 2009. This year AI has planned to celebrate Women Rights Day by campaigning about the condition of women rights mainly focusing among the 9 countries namely Laiberia, Haiti, Afghanistan, Iraq, Nepal, Iran, South Africa, Venezuela and Greece .For this, in Nepal, we branches of AI situated in different countries, members and supporters has planned to send letter to the primeminister of Nepal for the security of women rights defenders.

Excerpts further information about the situation of women rights defenders of Nepal and campaign to improve the situation.

Background

In Nepal, the mass People’s Movement of April 2006 (the so-called Jana Andolan in Nepali) precipitated high expectations for renewed respect for human rights in Nepal – expectations for building a “New Nepal” and placing human rights protection at the heart of the work of the Nepal’s new Constituent Assembly elected in April 2008.

Long-standing discrimination on the basis of caste, gender and ethnicity emerged as a critical issue in Nepal. The Comprehensive Peace Accord (CPA) of November 2006 commits the end of all forms of discrimination. This commitment inspired a range of people discriminated on the basis of identity .Although there has been little delivery on promises so people including women are in the mood of despair. Mainly in the rural parts of the country and in the Terai police and district administration has been almost failed to ensure justice for victim and punishment to the perpetrators by investigating independetly and fairly the incident of human rights abuses . The resulting security vacuum has allowed the proliferation of armed groups engaged in a number of human rights abuses such as abductions and unlawful killings. Crimes against women are going unquestioned and unpunished. Crimes against women are going unquestioned and unpunished. Many women and girls are afraid to report rape and other forms of violence, not only because of hostility and stigma from their community, but also due to state inaction in ensuring the investigation, prosecution and punishment of perpetrators through the justice system. Civil faith towards the mechanism of government reducing day by day which itself is a serious situation.

Women working to protect women’s rights are combating violence as they challenge feudal practices and face the most direct threats including beatings; threats and even death. As Women defenders become more vocal, building on new political space to discuss discrimination, they fear a backlash without any protective mechanisms in place to support their work.

Increasing threatens to the Women right defenders and its defence

Women rights defenders of Nepal working for the women of conflict victims subjected to physical assaults and threaten. According to the Women Rehabilitation Centre (WOREC) a national level organization working for the women, only in 2008 around 40 women rights defenders faced life threat. Around 200 participants in the national counselling meeting for the women rights defenders held in Kathmandu at November 29 and 30 reported of being issued threats, harassed and faced various kinds of violation existing in the society. Women rights defenders working in the Local level, mainly in rural areas, seems to the vocal against the bad practices of the society. So they are targeted, attacked and some time they have been killed. They said that in this risky situation too, they are not feeling defeated and want to work continuiously. The change which we are seeking for can be obtained if we provide help to the women rights defenders who are working in this risky situation. If they could get help from all quarters, all the risk could be reduced. Protection of the women rights defenders and punishment to the person who is responsible is responsibility of the state. So AI has planned the worldwide campaign to drag the attention of Government of Nepal in the cases like this, for the security of the women rights defenders and the guarantee of the punishment to the perpetrators. AI stressed in conclusion that Nepal government must said – There should not be the women violation.

What did we do during the campaign?

Members of the AI residing in different countries sent letter to Prime minister of Nepal Puspa Kamal Dahal Prachanda urging him to ensure the security of women rights defenders (mainly working in the rural areas) and take the measure of zero tolerance on those aspects. In Nepal AI local groups and the youth networks have taken part on the campaign by sending the letters after collecting the signatures. Letters have been sent through the Chief of District Office and in some cases letter was sent to the primeminister directly.

On the both programmes former central member of AI Nepal Dipak Rajbhandari, convener of group 16 Suresh Upadhyaya, Chairman of Nepal Human Rights Organization, Representative of Nepal Lawyer Association, businessperson, teachers, and members of women networks participated. It is said by the member of network Ajaya Kumar Swarnakar.
International secretariat released a press statement after one year of election of constitutional assembly on April 10, 2009 (28th of Chaitra 2065). Constituent Assembly election was committed for a new Nepal and promised that special programmes for the upliftments of backyard community including women would be started. Amnesty stated: Evidence of this failure can be found in the treatment of women activists campaigning for human rights who are the victims of beatings, sexual attacks and murder, with no significant effort made to bring the perpetrators to justice.

“When the Maoist Government came to power it made commitments to protect women's rights but now it seems that the party made false promises,” said Madhu Malhotra, Amnesty International's Asia-Pacific Deputy Director.

“Now that they are in government, all the revolutionary rhetoric has not resulted in real improvements in women's lives,” he added.

AI should play a crucial role in Nepal, where many women are unaware of their rights and are afraid of confronting social and government authority,” said Madhu Malhotra.

“Women activists are singled out, and Women activists are subjected for violent attacks and this trend promotes a culture of silence and discourages women experiencing violence to speak out.”

Amnesty International has found that, in spite of the election promises made by the government, women human rights activists continue to be at high risk of attack because they dare to challenge Nepal's patriarchal divisions. Many have become social outcasts for raising the issues of domestic and sexual violence and are targets of intimidation, beatings and even death. The Nepalese police often refuse to file a complaint or to fully investigate attacks and offer no protection.

Two women's rights activists in Nepal have been murdered since the new government came to power, with no significant attempts made to investigate or prosecute the crimes. The most recent case was that of Uma Singh, a journalist for Radio Today FM who was a member of the Women's Human Rights Defender Network. She was attacked on 11 January 2009 by a group of men armed with sharp weapons. She was severely mutilated and died on her way to hospital in Kathmandu.

In June 2008 Laxmi Bohara, from Kanchanpur, was severely beaten and then reportedly murdered by her husband and mother-in-law who were not happy with her working to defend human rights.

Amnesty International urges the Nepali Government to take urgent action by ensuring the safety and protection of women human rights activists, particularly in rural areas, develop a national plan of action, including the establishment of safe shelters/homes and other facilities for women survivors of violence.

Similarly AI urges the government to take all possible measures to ensure justice, truth and reparations for crimes of violence against women committed during and after the conflict.
WORLDWIDE CAMPAIGN FOR THE INVESTIGATION OF MURDER OF WOMEN RIGHTS DEFENDER LAXMI BOHARA

Amnesty International has started worldwide request campaign for the investigation and punishment to the perpetrators on murder case of women human rights defender Laxmi Bohara of Kanchanpur district. Laxmi Bohara lost her life because of domestic violence in her own home.

Campaign started from last April and in this campaign members and supporters of AI worldwide will write letter (request on Postcard) to the President of Nepal Dr. Rambaran Yadav. The demands to be written in the postcard are as follows:

- Conduct a prompt and independent investigation into Laxmi Bohara’s death.
- Develop a national plan of action to implement the UN Declaration on Human Rights Defenders to enable human rights defenders to carry out their legitimate work without fear of reprisal.
- Take all possible measures to ensure the safety and protection of women human rights defenders, particularly in rural areas.
- take all possible measure to ensure justice, truth and reparations for crimes of violence against women committed during and after the conflict.

AI Nepal will handover these postcard sent from worldwide on June 6, 2008 on her first death anniversary.

Women activists, Laxmi Bohara, died in the morning of 6 June 2008 after being severely beaten by her husband and mother-in-law. She was forced to drink poison.

She was being beaten frequently by the two family members for being involved in te women’s rights activism.

A postmortem conducted by a distant relative of her husband attributed her death to suicide. However, an examination carried out by the hospital stated that Laxmi had died due to poisoning and noted that her body had severe bruising. Laxmi’s father filed a complaint stating that his daughter had been murdered by her husband and mother-in-law. The police were initially hesitant to lodge the complaint but were forced to file the FIR due to pressures from national and international rights group. A year since Laxmi Bohara’s death, the case is still pending in the district court.
CAMPAIGN TO RATIFY CONVENTION FOR THE PROTECTION OF ALL PERSONS FROM ENFORCED DISAPPEARANCE

In the course of the decade-long armed conflict between the security forces and the Communist Party of Nepal CPN Maoists, at least 900 people disappeared after they were detained by the security forces. The CPN (M) was also responsible for several hundreds of killings, abductions and torture of people seen as opposing their cause. Hundreds of families still anxiously await news of their missing relatives.

Notwithstanding the Comprehensive Peace Accord (CPA) of 21 November 2006 which states to end the conflict, and the election of a Constituent Assembly which promised to bring a ‘New Nepal’, the process of delivering truth, justice and reparations for violations committed during the conflict has not progressed. A climate of impunity persists and there is a real danger of Nepal’s recent tragic history repeating itself. So close to the repetition of such incident in future, effective measures should be implemented.

International coalition against enforced disappearance where AI is also a member, has been launching campaign focusing one country in a month for the ratification of the international convention for the protection of all persons from enforced disappearance. This network launched programme in Nepal from April to June 2009.

In this campaign mainly organizations related to this network, their members and supporters have written letter to the Prime Minister to sign and ratify the convention.

ACTIONS OF GOVERNMENT ON CONVENTION

Nepal has not signed the international convention for the protection of all persons from enforced disappearance. The process of signing/ratification has not yet started. Nepal was not among the sponsors of the UN resolution on the adoption of the Convention.

The Supreme Court of Nepal in 2007 ordered the government to enact legislation that would criminalise enforced disappearances and take into account the new International Convention for the Protection of all Persons from Enforced Disappearance.

The draft of Nepalese Bill on Disappearances (Crime and Punishment) Act, 2065 does not comply with several provisions of the Convention.

WHAT WE WANT FROM THE GOVERNMENT OF NEPAL?

Nepal should sign and ratify the Convention at the earliest opportunity as it is a signal that it is committed to prevent future enforced disappearances.

The most positive achievement in the near future would be a statement by the government of Nepal committing to ratifying the Convention within the given timeframe.

We want commitments from the government of Nepal for the ratification of the convention and if the government is feeling any hardship to do it, we want to know – what is it?
